

Editors' Acknowledgments

Editors' Acknowledgments

The Editors would like to express their appreciation to the Editorial Board and the Panel of Advisory Editors for their advice and help in producing this Volume Five, Issue 1 of Tuning Journal. Particular thanks are due to the Managing Editor who oversaw this whole Issue in relation to production of both print and electronic copy and was a constant source of help and encouragement. Finally, we would like to offer our sincere, warmest and heartfelt thanks to those listed below who gave of their time and wise expertise to assist with the reviewing process. We are grateful to all of them and particularly to those, who suffered from adverse technological situations or generously reacted to pressing time conditions.

Hani Atwa Salem, Suez Canal University, Egypt.
Mitiku Bekele, Jimma University, Ethiopia.
Pablo Beneitone, University of Deusto, Spain.
Timothy Birtwistle, Leeds Beckett University, UK.
Joellen Coryell, Texas State University, USA.
Giulia Dahlberg, University of Skövde, Sweden.
Sylvia Didou Aupetit, CINVESTAV-Centro de Investigación y de Estudios Avanzados del Instituto Politécnico Nacional-Sede Sur, Mexico.
Ghada El Khayat, University of Alexandria, Egypt.
Ahmed El-Gohary, Egypt-Japan University of Science & Technology (E-JUST), Egypt.
Yasser El-Wazir, Suez Canal University, Egypt.
Rita Falcao, Universidade Nova de Lisboa, Portugal.
Ismail Gomaa, Alexandria University, Egypt.
Ina Grieb, University of Oldenburg, Germany.
Alan Hegarty, University of Limerick, Ireland.
Patrick Johnson, University of Limerick, Ireland.
Richard R. Jugar, University of San Carlos, Philippines.
Marykutty Mammen, University of Fort Hare, South Africa.
Mohammad Mohammad Megahed, Cairo University, Egypt.
Mark Prendergast, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland.
Margarete Schermutzki, Higher Education and Tuning Expert, Germany.
Alfredo Soeiro, Universidade do Porto, Portugal.
Alessio Surian, Università di Padova, Italy.
Ganika Venkata Ramayya, Jimma University, Ethiopia.
Maria Yarosh, University of Deusto, Spain.

*Luigi F. Donà dalle Rose
Anna Serbati
November 20th, 2017.*

